Signature lighting

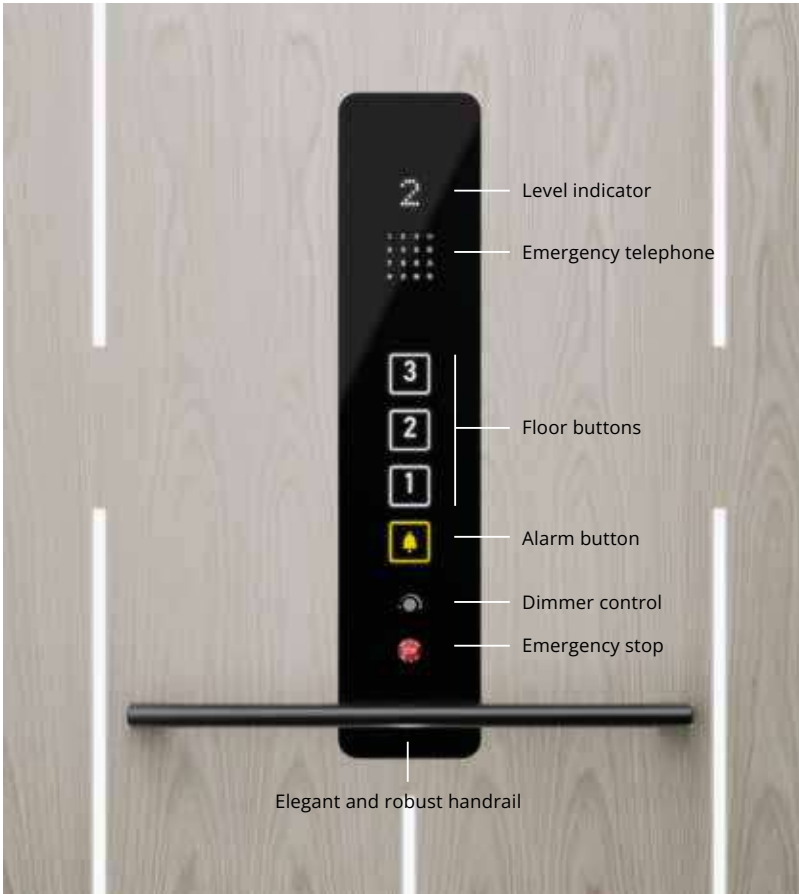

One of the signature features of the Symmetry Asterix is its spectacular lighting design. The delicate halo around the call buttons illuminates as soon as the elevator is used, and the elegant linear light pattern of the cabin walls and ceiling offers you the unique experience of traveling inside a light portal.

Smart light features

For your peace of mind, all light features of the Symmetry Asterix are created with energy-efficient and durable LED technology, and thanks to our smart software, we can tailor the lighting programming of the Symmetry Asterix to your preferences. To enhance your travel experience even more, the elevator car includes a dimmer control, allowing you to adjust the light intensity to harmonize with your mood.

User-friendly functions

The control panel is ergonomic and user-friendly without compromising on elegance. For your comfort and convenience, all elevator functions are accompanied by instructive symbols and text.

Source your own landing doors

The Symmetry Asterix only includes the door inside the elevator car as standard, giving you the freedom to source landing doors that match the other doors of your home.

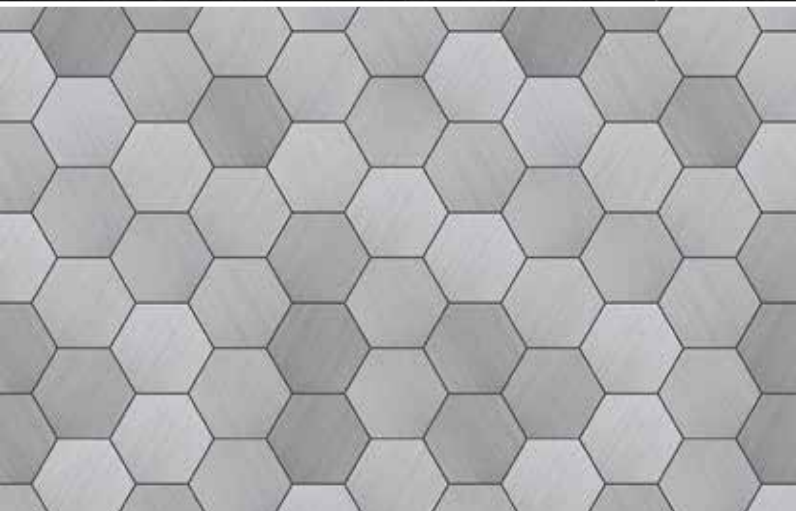

Choose our landing doors

As an option, we also provide 2-panel or 3-panel sliding doors for the landings. Available powder coated in beige or black or in brushed stainless steel.

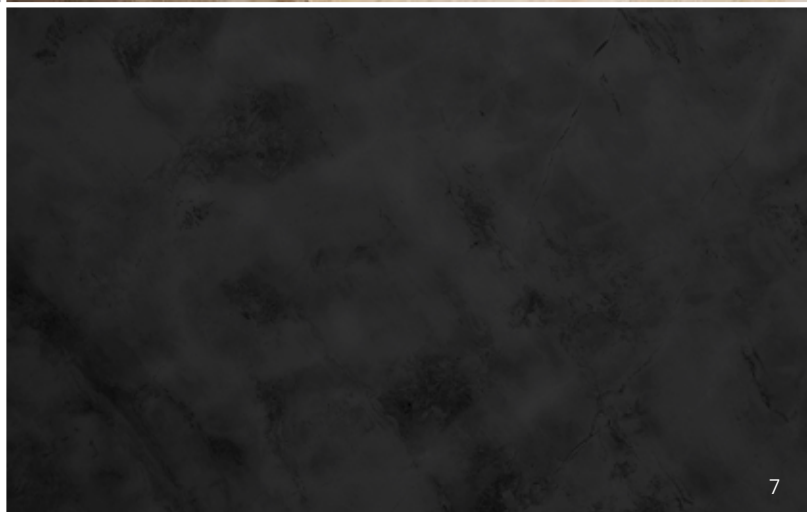

Customized flooring

Your Symmetry Asterix home elevator is always delivered without finished flooring to give you the freedom to have your perfect flooring supplied and fitted by others. You decide whether you want the elevator flooring to match the other floors of your home, or if you want something completely different.

Choose your drive system

Our standard in line geared drive system is very space-efficient and easy to install. However, if you are looking for a home elevator with an exceptionally quiet and smooth operation, our hydraulic drive system is a great option for you.

Seamless integration

Given that the Symmetry Asterix neither requires a deep elevator pit nor extensive headroom, it has minimal structural impact on your home. And, because your residential elevator is manufactured according to your exact specifications, it will blend in seamlessly into your interior design.

Smooth installation process

Thanks to its smart and space-efficient construction, the Symmetry Asterix can be installed much faster than conventional elevators. Installing a conventional elevator generally requires expensive structural alterations that will turn your home into a building site for several weeks. But the Symmetry Asterix is different. Thanks to its compact, ready-made construction, the Symmetry Asterix minimizes the structural impact on your home, reduces your building costs and helps you get your home back in order a lot faster.
